Judges: Melanie Chester, Alex Kirkwood, Belinda Thomson, Nathan Brown, Courtney Tate

Class comments: A good bracket of a few different styles - the best wines had texture and interest, along with fresh fruit and bright acidity. Lowest scoring wines were looking a bit old for their age. Our favourite wine had lovely texture and drinkability.

Class 05 Sauvignon Blanc

Judges: Adam Cotterell, Alex Kirkwood, Belinda Thomson, Nathan Brown, Courtney Tate

Entered: 13
Judged: 13

Class comments: Plenty of winemaking on show in the bracket particularly use of solids and lees for complexity and texture. The best examples of this character were well considered and still allowed purity of aromatics and flavours to shine. Varietal character celebrated whilst avoiding excess pungency.

Entered: 35

Class comments: Judges really happy with the progression in handling the variety within the region. Clearly a variety that is incredibly malleable the best examples that were rewarded relied a little less on winemaking artefact and instead allowed fruit purity to shine. Oak important for its structural and directional role but those wines where it was a dominant character were less favoured. A high level of medals though which is a good sign of promise...

Class 08 Other varieties and/or blends 2019

Judges: Melanie Chester, Stuart Hordern, Kayleen Reynolds, Monica Gray, Sam Leyshon

Entered: 24
Judged: 23

Class comments: Some absolutely lovely wines here - great to see some experimentation with different varieties and different styles (off dry and skin contact). The best wines weren't classic blends but more blends of lots of varieties - made with drinkability front of mind. The top wine had intrinsic drink ability and enjoyment, while the weakest lacked balance (sugar or acid).

Class comments: As anticipated as the variety was it most certainly delivered for the Judging team involved. Clearly a warm and dry vintage that delivered fruit in abundance the best wines harnessed that and also delivered purity and freshness not weighted down by extract and oak. Spice a key qualitative factor rewarded and enjoyed.

Judges: Melanie Chester, Adam Cotterell, Stuart Hordern, Alex Kirkwood, Kayleen Reynolds, Belinda Thomson, Nathan Brown, Monica Gray, Sam Leyshon, Courtney Tate

Class comments: A real surprise at the quality level for a challenging vintage! Best wines displayed all the fragrance and spice of a cool vintage in a cool climate but also used winemaking decisions like whole bunch and oak in a thoughtful and considered way allowing purity and tension to be celebrated.

Class 17 Cabernet Sauvignon 2018 and 2019

Judges: Melanie Chester, Alex Kirkwood, Belinda Thomson, Nathan Brown, Courtney Tate

Entered: 6
Judged: 5

Class comments: Lots of extraction in the 2018 wines - some great fruit density and texture. Good freshness without green-ness in the best wines. Our favourite wine was red fruited and savoury but unfortunately held back by oak.

Class 18 Cabernet Sauvignon 2017 and older

Judges: Melanie Chester, Alex Kirkwood, Belinda Thomson, Nathan Brown, Courtney Tate

Entered: 12
Judged: 11

Class comments: The best wines here had freshness of fruit but importantly ripeness and density, especially from the clearly challenging 2017 vintage. Our favourite wines were two styles - one more red fruited, and modern, while the other more chocolate and savoury. Some of the older wines are looking a touch tired. Be careful of oak on these wines too - often held back wines in this bracket.

Class comments: This was lots of fun to judge! We loved the wines of freshness, texture and great tannin and extract. The weaker wines struggled with the balance between tannins, acid and flesh/fruit weight. Our top wines were high in drinkability, quality and freshness. Thanks!

Class comments: Some varieties clearly challenged by the cooler 2017 vintage where ripeness was an issue. Clever blending however did fill out palate shapes and avoid and 'shallow/simple' characters.
